PLAN FOR 200 FT. SUPER HIGHWAY IS NEAR REALIZATION

Proposed Road Will Skirt
Chicago and Cook County.

Plans for a 200 foot super highway through Lake and DuPage counties and thence skirting Chicago to the south and northeast into Michigan are nearing realization, according to E. L. Gates, secretary of the Metropolitan Highway association.

The new highway will connect Milwaukee and Chicago. It will enter Lake county near Buffalo Grove, passing between Mundelein and Libertyville in practically a tree line with its northern terminus in Lake county about four miles west of Kenosha, near Chapin. From Chapin, north along Route 57, the superhighway will continue north to Milwaukee, bringing the motorist west of Milwaukee.

21 Miles in DuPage Co.

The road will run 21 miles through DuPage county. Three-fourths of the land owners along the route it is to take have already signed up for the highway and the remaining ones are ironing out the difficulties involved in giving up 200 foot strip of ground through their property.

The highway will enter Cook county along the Busse road north of Bensenville, one of the few existing highways that will be used by the three state highway. It will go on north to the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, then take a little jog to the west and pass over a brand new road until it leaves Cook county on a line not far from Wheeling.

To Connect With Dixie Highway

The only other part of the superhighway that is in existence is a section from Dixie highway to the Indiana state line along 171st street. This part has been approved and tentatively accepted by the Cook county commissioners.

From the Dixie highway to the Sag, near Lemont, the highway bends from an east and west direction to a straight northerly route. This right angle bend will be entirely in Cook county, but its exact location has not yet been officially determined.

All forward progress on the Three-State superhighway now awaits the action of Col. C. R. Miller, head of the department of public works and buildings of Illinois, who must determine where state highway No. 54 is to be located. This proposed new highway was created by the last legislature to run from the western limits of Chicago, west and south to 111th street. From North avenue, where it begins, to 111th street where it ends, its actual location has not been selected.

Citizens of DuPage county have offered Col. Miller the Three-State highway as a location for state highway No. 54. He will inspect this route at an early date, he has promised, and pass on its availability.

LOON LAKE WOMAN RESCUES HUSBAND

W. E. Sheehan Narrowly
Escapes Death Beneath
Hoofs of Angry Bull.

But for the prompt and courageous action of his wife, who heard his cries and came to his rescue as he was being trampled upon, by a vicious bull which had escaped from his control, W. E. Sheehan of Loon Lake would have been trampled to death in the stable of his farm recently.

Sheehan had been watering the animal which broke loose and before he could fasten it up again, had broken Sheehan's arm and pinned him to the ground.

Hearing her husband's cries Mrs. Sheehan rushed to the scene. When she saw what was occurring she seized a pitchfork and with it as a weapon prevented the animal from trampling her husband to death. Single handed she was successful in getting the enraged animal under control and fastening him to his stall.

Ald was summoned for Sheehan and Dr. Warriner and Beebe set the arm, but because of the crushed condition of the bones found it necessary to take the injured man to the Wesley hospital in Chicago. He is reported as somewhat better but is still in a serious condition.

GRADE SCHOOL BUYS LAND FOR PLAYGROUND

The property extending back from the present grade school playground toward the Corona Pen factory and E. B. Williams' land was added to the grade school property this week when the Antioch Grade School board purchased the land from Mrs. Addie Williams.

Some time ago the board purchased a strip of land from A. Maplethorpe and the new property, adjoining the Maplethorpe tract will afford the increased playground facilities which have been so needed. The land is off the street and will give a sheltered playground for the school children. The tract measures slightly less than an acre in extent and lies behind the holdings of A. H. Johnson and A. W. Bock on North Main street.

FORMER WORLD WAR WORKERS TO HAVE CLUB

The Civil Legion, a national organization composed of those who in non-uniformed activities rendered a patriotic service to the National cause during the World War, held its second national convention and elected its officers recently. The Civil Legion is to its members what the American Legion is to ex-service men.

National headquarters are at 163 West Washington St., Chicago. Joseph S. Haas of Wauconda and A. N. Tiffany of Antioch were charter members in this organization.

North Shore Line Adds $900,000 In Cars and Equipment

New equipment and rolling stock costing over $900,000 has been ordered by the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad—the North Shore line—in an extensive program of enlarging facilities in all branches of its service, according to announcement made today by the company.

The equipment is of the latest design and includes the most modern devices known to the electric railroad industry. All of it is scheduled to be in service by next spring. The largest single item comprises 15 all-steel passenger motor cars, which have been ordered from the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation. The cars will be equipped with the new "easy chair" type seats, upholstered in grey Byzantine plush. The windows will be four inches higher than those on cars now in use, giving increased visibility.

Lake Villa Postmaster Is Acquitted By Jury

Postmaster Claire Sherwood of Lake Villa, on trial last week in the court of Judge C. C. Edwards on a charge of rape, was found not guilty by the jury last Wednesday evening. Sherwood was accused of having made a criminal attack on Laura Sorenson, 15 year old Lake Villa school girl, on the afternoon of June 30.

Sherwood's defense was based on the establishment of the alibi that he had been working on a raft in the lake during the entire afternoon and was not at home at the time that the offense was held to have been committed.

Antioch Boy Scouts Attend Livestock Show

MAIL CHRISTMAS PACKAGES EARLY TO INSURE DELIVERY

Early Sending and Secure
Wrapping Is Urged
By Department

Christmas packages should be mailed early in order to insure their delivery before Christmas according to Postmaster Little M. Jones of Antioch, who gives the following mailing suggestions:

Far western mailing should be done soon. If packages are to reach Washington, California, and the rest of the coast states in time for the Christmas stockings, they should start out not later than December 14th or 15th. An allowance of ten days to go half way across the continent is not too much when the vast amount of mail to be handled is considered.

For all points west of the Mississippi and east of the Alleghenies liberal time is recommended. The safer way, according to Miss Jones, is to send them out on the 17th, and no package designed to reach its journey's end before Christmas should be mailed not later than the 21st.

All parcels should be securely wrapped or packed. Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Here the department advises liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material, in, around, and between the articles and the outside container. All articles easily broken or damaged should be plainly marked "Fragile."

A note of warning is also sounded about the address on your Christmas parcels. Here the sender is asked to remember that the address should be complete, with house number and name of street, postoffice or rural box number typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if the tag is lost, and a copy of the address should be enclosed in the parcel.

Following is a list of dates by which parcels should be mailed in order to reach their destination by Christmas.

December 14 and 15, for Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Idaho.

December 16 to 18, for Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas.

December 17 to 20, for North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

December 19 to 21, for Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky.

December 17 to 20, for New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware, New England States.

December 21 or 22, for Illinois.

December 23, for local Rural Routes.

December 24 a. m. village.

FLAMES EARLY THIS MORNING TAKE LAKE MARIE SUMMER HOME

Second Cottage is Saved by Prompt Work of Fire Department.

Fire of unknown origin early this morning demolished a seven room summer cottage built by L. Newman at Midlakes subdivision on Lake Marie and, but for the prompt and effective work of the Antioch Volunteer Fire department, would have taken the cottage next to it also.

The fire was first seen by Homer Tate who put in the call for the local department. The blaze was well under way when discovered and by the time the firemen arrived it was impossible to save the building. They found the northwest wall of the neighboring cottage, also the property of L. Newman, already afire. They were able to extinguish the flames without doing damage to the interior of the second cottage.

No cause for the fire could be given. The cottage was not yet wired for electricity; it was a new cottage and was kept in excellent condition with no accumulation of rubbish.

L. Newman, the builder of the cottage had occupied it until about two weeks ago, and Henry Pape, who lives in the neighborhood and acts as agent for Mr. Newman for the sale of the cottages, was at first apprehensive for fear the owner might have returned and been trapped by the flames. Investigations this morning disclosed the fact that Newman was not here at the time of the fire, and was possibly on the way to California where he expects to spend the winter.

The work of the firemen in saving the second cottage was highly commended. They arrived at the spot seventeen minutes after the alarm was telephoned in and extinguished the fire in the second cottage when the northwest wall was already aflame and with the handicap of a northwest wind.

The cottages were both new, having been finished this summer. Misfortune apparently has attended the building of the one throughout, as it was partially erected last summer when the cyclone came through. It was completely razed at that time and Newman was forced to start building it anew. It was completely furnished within and was valued at $3,700.00.

FORMER ANTIOCH AUTHOR GAINS RECOGNITION

The December number of the American Mercury has an article, the "Pacing White Mustang" by J. Frank Dobie in which reference is made to Captain J. W. French. He is also referred to as "Wild Jim" and "Texas Cowboy." A quotation is made from Captain French's book written at Antioch, Illinois, forty years ago in which he describes this wonderfully interesting wild horse of the plains. As "Wild Jim" was an Antioch boy many of his old friends and schoolmates will read this with interest and kindly remembrances of Auld Lang Syne.

Until January 1st the News will accept renewals and new subscriptions not to exceed 6 years in advance, at the rate of $1.50 per year.

"A Full House" To Be Senior Play Presented Dec. 9

The Senior Class Play, a delightful comedy in three acts entitled "A Full House," will be produced at the High School Auditorium, on Friday, December 9, at eight o'clock. The children's performance will be on Thursday night, when the price of admission will be ten cents.

The seniors and the faculty director, Miss Hedwig Rice, are working hard to make this one of the best senior plays ever produced.

Imagine a reckless and wealthy youth who writes ardent love letters, an attorney brother-in-law who steals them and then gets his handbag mixed up with the grip of a burglar who has just stolen a valuable necklace from the mother of the indiscreet youth, and the efforts of the crook to recover his plunder, as incidents in the story of a play in which the swiftness of the action never halts an instant. Not only are the situations screamingly funny but the lines themselves hold a fund of humor.

The cast is as follows:

Parks, An English Servant, Edwin Kapple
Susie, From Sioux City, A Maid, Jean Abt
Ottily Howell, A Bride, Dorothy Brogan
Miss Winnecker, From Yonkers, The Aunt, Marian Willie
Daphne Charters, Ottily's Sister, Marguerite Munzer
Nicholas King, A Stranger, Russell Spicer
Ned Pembroke, Jr., An Only Son, Homer Tiffany
George Howell, A Bridegroom, Joe Bernaflo
Daugherty, A Policeman, Herbert Ghan
Kearney, A Policeman, Ray Van Patten
Mrs. Fleming, Who owns the Apartment, Edna Verrier

Members of the senior class are making a canvass of the town this week selling tickets for next Friday's show.

Says County Treasurers Are Entitled to One Per Cent of Road Bonds

County treasurers are entitled to 1 per cent of the money realized from the sale of road bonds when they receive the money and an additional 1 per cent when they pay the money out of the treasury, Attorney General Oscar E. Carstrom ruled in an opinion made recently.

His opinion was given in reply to a query from the state's attorney of Saline county, who wished an interpretation of the law in regard to the treasurer's authority to collect commission on road bonds and whether the county board could forbid him to make such collections.

ANTIOCH TOWNSHIP HIGH ALUMNI TO FORM ASSOCIATION

Get Together Dinner To Be Held Monday Evening,
December 26th.

Several alumni of the High School met during the week end to discuss the advisability of forming an alumni association. A temporary organization was formed with the purpose in mind of calling a meeting of all alumni to form a permanent organization.

Albert Hermann was elected chairman and Hilma Rosing secretary. After considerable discussion it was decided to have a dinner in the High School Cafeteria Monday evening after Christmas, December 26. This date was selected because several will be in town for only one or two days at Christmas time and would have to return to their work shortly. It is hoped that this will accommodate nearly all of the former graduates.

The entertainment committee under the direction of Cornelia Roberts hopes to induce several former teachers and principals to be present and take part in the festivities. This association is not to be limited to the Township High School but is open to graduates of the Village High School before the present High School was built. Wives and husbands both present and intended are eligible to attend.

Those who knew the addresses of former alumni, especially of some of the older graduates are requested to give the information to the secretary or to phone or send it to the office of the High School principal.

Boy's Soybean Club Displays Result Of Experimental Project

The Soybean Club, an organization sponsored by the State Bank of Antioch, for the purpose of demonstrating the raising of soybeans in the Lake region, completed the project for the year and have arranged a display of the prize winning samples of hay and of threshed soybeans. Three samples of each are shown.

In the stalk Roy McNeil of Grayslake won first, and Charles Hawkins of Antioch won first in threshed seed. The two boys are to go today to the National Livestock show in Chicago as the guests of the State Bank.

Second and third in the stalk class were won by Lloyd Atwell of Lake Villa and John Nielson of Antioch, and in the threshed seed class, Wm. Nielson and Ward Edwards of Antioch were the winners.

All of the soybeans were of the Manchou variety. The experiment proved an unusually successful one netting all of the boys good yields and a good return on their time invested. Each boy had four pounds of seed given him and this amount planted about an eighth of an acre. The very superior yield this season was in part due to the unusually dry growing season, according to C. L. Kutil of the high school agricultural department who supervised the experiment.

The soybean is of use to the farmer because of its high oil content. It is used for stock feed in place of oil meal. It is also used commercially.

Widger of the department of English E. I. S. T. C., Charleston, Illinois, will be the speakers.

RETURN TO NATURE MOVEMENT ASKED BY CONSERVATION DEPT.

$20,000,000 Bond Issue To Benefit The Entire State.

Springfield, Ill., November 29.

Uplands and lowlands alike will both have a part in the "return to nature" movement that will follow the adoption in Illinois of the $20,000,000 bond issue for Conservation, Robert Scholes of Peoria, Speaker of the House in the 55th General Assembly, said here today.

Paying tribute to the successes of the State Department of Conservation, directed by William J. Stratton, Mr. Scholes said he believed the State of Illinois had a fair sample of what could be done if adequate resources were available. But all the Department has done, he added, is only the merest sample for it is possible under the proposed bond issue to take the benefits of conservation to every part of the state.

River bottoms, flooded with water to the ruin of countless Illinois farmers Mr. Scholes said, would be acquired and given back to the Illinois and the Father of Waters, in many places. This, he said, will in turn protect other farm lands which would not be flooded if it were not for the excessive number of dikes confining the streams.

Not only will broad acres of river land be acquired for game and fish preserves and hunting grounds, but acres and acres of hilly land will be acquired. There reforestation would be given its first considerable impulse in Illinois, and hillsides now bare will blossom with verdure of forests. These forests, he pointed out, will do their full share in protecting lands from floods, inasmuch as waters now sent down into flooded streams from bare hillsides will hold back for weeks and months their contribution of water when forest trees crown them.

Giving his warmest endorsement to the coming campaign for the twenty million dollar bond issue, Mr. Scholes said the best thing about the proposal was that it would be no burden at all to the taxpayers of Illinois. All expenses, for bonds and their retirement, will come from the fees paid the Department of Conservation for hunting and fishing licenses, without any direct taxation.

Long Looked For Ford Car To Be Introduced To Antioch Tomorrow

Antioch will get its first full description of the new line of Ford automobiles, tomorrow.

A public reception to be held by local dealers is part of the national introduction of the new Ford Models. In thousands of communities all over the United States tomorrow this new line of moderate-priced light automobiles will be introduced to millions of people.

The doors of the showrooms are to be opened and Ford agents will be on hand throughout the day to explain the new and interesting features of the car which is expected to make a new chapter in automotive history.

The new Ford cars are said to be the product of several years of study and planning by Henry Ford and his engineers in the great Ford laboratories at Dearborn. Mr. Ford himself has announced that "there is nothing quite like the new Ford car" and has stated that it will prove just as great a pioneer in the present field of low price light cars of quality as the famous Model T was a pioneer in its field for more than nineteen years.

The performance of these new cars it is said, will be startling when viewed in the light of automobile performance of the past.

Local dealers have been notified by Ford officials at Detroit that the factories throughout the country are now preparing to produce the new cars in numbers exceeding even the tremendous production records achieved in the manufacture of the Model T line.

Company officials at Detroit also repeated their early announcement that production of the new Ford line will not make the Model T line obsolete. The manufacture of new parts for Model T replacements will continue to be an important factor of the Ford plants as long as any of the Model T cars are still in operation, the local dealers were advised. Because of this policy, present owners of Model T Ford cars will be able to keep their cars in perfect order as long as those cars remain in commission.

AUGUST 1928 SET FOR REUNION OF GREAT LAKES MEN

Legion Meet, Sousa's Band,
Many Notables Coming To Lake County.

A reunion of all officers and men that passed through the U. S. Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Illinois, will be held on August 26th, 1928, it was announced today.

During his recent visit to the East, Edw. M. McGeough, the Commander of the 8th District, American Legion, was successful in obtaining the Fleet Reserve Association, an organization of enlisted men of the U. S. Navy with eight years or more service, to hold their convention in Chicago on August 25th and 26th, 1928.

With the Department of Illinois, American Legion convention, the Great Lakes Training Fleet, consisting of six or more ships assembling off Waukegan, and the Fleet Reserve Association all meeting at about the same time in the vicinity of Great Lakes, it was decided that this would be the best time to bring about this reunion which has been talked about about constantly since the War.

It is conservatively estimated that during that week end in August Waukegan will have at least 50,000 visitors.

It is contemplated that John Philip Sousa will once again lead his famous band of 1000 or more pieces across the drill field.

All of the famous personages that visited Great Lakes during the War will be asked to return for that day. Ex-Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, as well as Rear Admiral Wm. A. Moffett will be present as well as a host of others.

All of the plans for this reunion will be under the direct charge of Hugh W. Fisher, Chief Clerk to the Commandant, U. S. Naval Training Station, who probably has a wider acquaintance in Navy circles than any other living person, he having personally met every officer and man that passed through Great Lakes since its inception.

Foresee Excise Cut On Autos-- Is Only Remaining War Tax

Motorists are rejoicing in the decision of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives to cut the war excise tax on automobiles from 3% to 1½%, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club. Following the decision of the committee to cut the tax, Mr. Hayes received a telegram from Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the American Automobile association, thanking the club for its part in the campaign against the continuation of the tax.

"In view of the fact that Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew Mellon, had recommended a permanent tax, and President Coolidge had supported Mellon's stand, this action on the part of the committee is significant," said Mr. Smith. "There is an excellent chance now to eliminate the entire tax on the floor of the House."

Mr. Hayes said that the Chicago Automobile Trade association, the Chicago Motor club, and a number of other civic groups in Illinois and Indiana had waged a persistent campaign for the elimination of the tax, and that although the action of the committee was viewed as a victory, nevertheless, an even more strenuous campaign would be carried on to eliminate the entire tax, which the club president characterized as unjust and unnecessary.

"Ample evidence is available," declared Mr. Hayes "to show that the Federal government does not need the revenue from this tax, which produces about $70,000,000 a year.

"It is a tax levied on a special product for the purpose of general revenue. It singles out and penalizes one product while virtually every other product in the country bears no excise tax. Congress has already repealed the war excise tax on every other product so burdened with the exception of passenger automobiles, buses and taxis.

"Other units of transportation were the first to be relieved of the war excise tax, because of the vital importance of transportation to the economic life of the Nation, and yet the automobile which travels 175 times as many actual miles and 7 times as many passenger miles as the steam passenger trains, was forced to bear the burden of this tax."

O. W. Lehmann Horses Won Honors at Recent Riding Club Show

The fine showing of Otto W. Lehmann's horse from the Lake Villa stables in the Chicago horse show held at the Riding Club last week and the places won by the horses of John W. Thompson, son of the famous restaurateur, saved the Chicago area from being wiped out of the winnings at the sweepstakes.

Among the events won by Mr. Lehmann's horses were Hackney Mare in Hand, won by Princess Mary, second prize to Montpelier Corrine; Champion Heavy Harness Stake, won by Field Marshall, fourth prize to Montpelier Corrine; and Champion Hunter Stake, won by Sure Fire.

Field Marshall, 9 year old, representing Mr. Lehmann started the list of Chicago winners and was accorded by all to be one of the finest horses exhibited. He is an English horse, purchased by Mr. Lehmann four years ago. He has won numerous championships on the turf in this country but not until last week did he go at his best form on the track in an indoor arena. He was easily the best of his class, although competition was keen.

In the hackney pony classes the Lehmann horses divided honors with the ponies from the Lake Forest stables of John R. Thompson. Fire Lass, from the Thompson stable, was the winner in the riding class, and Princess Mary, the Lehmann contender, took the harness honors.

Elmer Peterson of Watford, age 20, lit a match to warm the gasoline feed on his tractor. The feed line was frozen up when he went to field. In the resulting explosion his clothing caught fire. He ran frantically to the house where his mother and father succeeded in putting out the flames with a blanket. He was so badly burned that he died at the Burlington hospital a few hours later.

The large steam shovel which turned over just south of Terra Cotta near the slough, November 5, still remains imbedded in the earth, efforts so far failing to remove the heavy machine. The ground is very soft where the machine turned over and the machine is down into the earth several feet.

First Program In Series Of Musical Preludes Is Given at M. E. Church

The first of a series of musical programs was given at the beginning of the services at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Mrs. W. F. Ziegler had the program in charge. Mrs. H. B. Gaston and Mrs. A. G. Watson opened the program with a duet. Their number was followed with two numbers for piano and organ with Miss Jean Abt at the piano and Mrs. Ziegler at the organ, a solo by Mrs. Gaston and piano prelude by Miss Abt.

Last Sunday's program was excellently varied and very well executed. The vocal numbers were sung with charm and sincerity and in the duets for piano and organ Miss Abt assumed the concert part at the piano with nice execution and Mrs. Ziegler employed the organs scope effectively as a background for the concerto.

Mrs. Ziegler plans a series of short programs for each Sunday evening. "We plan a variety of numbers," she stated, "and have much enjoyable music in store for the next few programs."

It was nearly one when Paul Raxon entered. He took a seat at the center table and put on it some small change and bills. He was looking at the clock. Then he lighted a cigar and went to the door leading to his bedroom, soon to reappear with a velvet smoking jacket. It seemed to Barnes that he pored up and down before the bookcase for hours. Then suddenly he went to the safe, turned the well known combination swiftly and flung it open. He seemed to be searching feverishly for some one thing in its deep recesses.

Very quietly Barnes pushed open the oaken side of his prison. It made no sound. Then, as noiselessly, he emerged. His next move was to crawl to the shelter of the table. Here he felt safe. He could see that Raxon was still searching. Stealthily the man who had been "Eary" rose to his knees. Then he rose to his feet and came nearer, inch by inch, to the unconscious man. He covered the last few intervening feet in a leap. Raxon's head, twisted sideways with the fearful and agonizing force of a blow on the jaw, caught sight of a face wholly unknown to him. The disguise was palpable, but sufficient. He was thrown forward on the heavily padded lounge. It was while he was fighting for breath that his hands were tied behind him. Then a loop of rope was forced into his mouth and something pulled down over his head so that he could see nothing. Next he was dropped to the floor and pushed through a narrow door. After that he was not molested. But he could hear someone at the safe. Papers rustled, drawers were opened. Then the steel doors swung to. Later his locked door was opened and shut. After that for hours there was blackness and cramp, rage and despair.

Although he could not shout, he found he could make inarticulate noises. He made them till his throat ached and the corners of his mouth were raw from the harsh rope. He had no idea yet where he was. He supposed Hellington must have prepared this secret place and kept its locality hidden. Perhaps through it there had come men, ere this, who had spoken upon him. Cramps seized him, whose agony left him white and feeble. Perhaps he would starve to death here. It was well known that his movements were uncertain, secretive and that he was impatient of questioning. It would be found that his bed was unmade. They would not look for him here. They would hunt far afield while he starved to death in this tower retreat. No shame or repentance came to him. Instead he cursed himself for carelessness. In his former home he had preserved almost an excessive caution, but he had supposed in so large a household as this, with many servants and guests, he was safe. There were other rooms which should have attracted burglars more than those rooms where women kept their diamonds. To come here argued a preconceived plan.

First of all he thought of McKimber. Could he, after all, have dared this? Was his dejected spirit assumed for putting the younger man off his guard? He remembered telling McKimber that those who underestimated him came to disaster. Perhaps he had made the mistake of thinking a man beaten to the ground when he was merely resting, awaiting an opportunity to spring. His assailant might even have been young McKimber. It was a tall, agile man who attacked him.

According to Barnes' instructions, Sneed, at breakfast, asked if he should arouse Mr. Raxon or see if he wanted his coffee in his room. As a rule Raxon was up early. In the end they discovered him. His mouth was swollen and discolored, and he could not rise to his feet when Bradley nudged the bonds. He was in a deplorable condition.

Saying Is Old

Samuel Johnson used the expression, "Hell is paved with good intentions," according to Boswell's life of Johnson, and an earlier saying to much the same effect, "Hell is full of good meanings and wishes," is attributed to George Herbert.

The krait probably causes more deaths in India, Assam and Burma than any other snake. It is a near relative of the cobra, is active and fearless and is likely to creep into houses and tents.

Memory That Lingers

able condition. He would tell his wife nothing. Nor would he hear of the police being notified.

"I know who did it," he lied, "and I will attend to him myself. This must not get into the papers. If it does, I shall know it comes from one of you three." He looked coldly at his wife, his butler, and the footman.

It was Bradley alone who dared to meet his gaze. In such a rage as this Mrs. Raxon trembled. Sneed could not avoid the consciousness that it was one of the wealthy employing classes who shivered with anger. Bradley welcomed the opportunity to see a man of whom he had heard so much bad, at whose hands he had himself experienced ill-treatment, at a moment when his usual control was gone. It seemed to the scientist that for a minute the mask was lifted and the terrible emotions which he had kept hidden were let loose. He cursed his wife. He called Sneed a thief, worthless creature that he had allowed a thief to break through and assault him. Bradley, towering over them all, came in for his share. Where had this hulking dunce been that the murderer had stolen upon him?

Bradley was secretly amused. Then he saw his chance to escape. He recalled some of Barnes' gestures and gave notice at once. There could hardly be a suspicion of collusion. It seemed to Mrs. Raxon that here was a courteous and efficient man servant galled to rare insubordination. Sneed suddenly took the resolve to depart with his footman.

Raxon turned to his wife. "Pay them and see they leave at once." Sneed turned on his heel and left the room. His second-footman followed.

"If any of those other people heard any connection, just tell them I had a fainting spell and shall be all right tomorrow." He almost pushed her from the room and turned the key.

Raxon hoped, as he walked to the safe, that he would find the robbery had been made by professionals for readily convertible plunder. He hardly dared search for the McKimber exhibits.

The envelope which had held what would have kept McKimber a pliant and obedient tool was gone. Negotiable securities and a large sum of cash were untouched. It was plain that the intruder had come for one thing only, and had been successful. The man who would have most to gain by this abstraction was young Robin McKimber, who had been in the house a week and had learned of the danger in which his father stood. In figure young McKimber was like the man of whom Raxon had one fleeting glance.

Never again would there be the opportunity to get any more incriminating letters. The page stolen from the register could not be replaced. What a fool he had been not to have them photographed. To implicate the postman without them would be almost impossible. Were McKimber to make a bold stand and accuse his enemy of attempted blackmail, the public would probably flock to the support of the older and better-known man. It was the greatest blow Paul Raxon had ever sustained. He felt that the humiliation of it would never pass from his mind. His face was bruised and sore, but he hardly knew it. He who had warned his opponent of the folly of underestimating him had fallen himself into that very trap.

It was late in the afternoon when he allowed his wife to enter. She had brought with her a pot of coffee and some sandwiches. The coffee he drank eagerly. He would not eat.

"Don't know what we are to do now those men have gone. It was most inconsiderate of you to talk like that to them. The maids won't wait at table and the agency can't send any men until tomorrow. If only we hadn't so many people staying here!"

"They won't be long here," he said grimly. "I think this social experiment is going to end. Pile the whole bunch in automobiles and take them to the chateau at Huntington. Telephone for reservations and see they get a good meal. They'll like the change. Now leave me alone."

CHAPTER XII

The evening that saw the Raxon guests taken to dinner at Huntington found the Japanese garden in Lower Fifth Avenue occupied by the Milman conspirators. During the dinner, which was perceptibly better served because Sneed had dropped back into his old place and Archie was less hurried, there was no word said about Great Rock. It was when Sneed had taken the coffee away that Milman began. Sitting in the center of them, he showed no sign of triumph. Watching him, Nita thought that she had never seen a man more perfectly courteous than he. Milman complimented them all on what they had done, but it was her father who came in for the greatest praise. The daughter watched him growing younger as he listened to Peter's encomiums. Barnes felt that at last he had been able to do his share.

"We are now," Milman went on, "in the position of holding what Raxon was going to use to lever himself into a senatorial seat. I have little doubt in my mind but that he will pay the price asked, which is a million dollars. Without this evidence he has no actual hold on McKimber. With it he can command his absolute obedience. I feel certain that with McKimber's help Raxon can win. With-out it he has little chance. The question is this: Is the senatorship worth a million dollars to Paul Raxon? If not, we are worse off than when we began. If it is, we have won."

Peter Milman looked about him as the chairman of a meeting does when he makes suggestions. Some would have supposed that there was a very real risk of disgrace and imprisonment if Raxon refused to buy and determined to prosecute.

"If you had looked into his face," Bradley remarked, "and had seen all the passions of hate and disappointment, fear and despair graven on it, you would have no doubt at all on the subject. I'm certain he will buy them back."

"But he'll try and get us," Barnes reminded him. "I wasn't any too gentle."

"There's always that danger," Peter Milman observed calmly; "but when a man has so overpowering an ambition as his, he may use caution which is really abhorrent. I have no doubt he will wish he could put us in Sing Sing. But better counsel will show him that it is dangerous. Before we see him we must rehearse some of the circumstances in which we were injured by him. I want him to think that we all know very certainly by what means he hurt us. In case he should decline to buy these letters, he must understand that he cannot prosecute us."

Floyd Malet had said little. He was watching the girl's sensitive face. He did not understand how it was the others did not realize she was suffering. They had assumed that she was wholly with them and as eager as they to win. It was because Malet loved her that he knew what was passing in her mind. He had seen her with Robin. He knew certainly that she loved the lad and suffered torture at the thought that she was going to aid in giving Paul Raxon the whip hand over him.

It was plain to Floyd Malet that this love of his for a girl, whose beauty had first attracted him because it was of a rare and finer sort, must be kept a secret. What has the world to offer but scorn for the middle-aged and unsuccessful lover? But love, he reflected, if it is genuine, finds its reward in service. How could he help her? Was it possible to bring her happiness and Robin? The other men were talking about Robin's father.

"He will suffer," said Mr. Milman impudently. "And his family will suffer. I am sorry for them; but in this case our interests weigh down the balance. McKimber, at all events, has money and an assured position."

"Why not offer to sell the letters to him, then?" Malet cried. "You will get your money just the same and you will be defeating Raxon?" He noticed that Nita listened eagerly for the reply.

"There are two reasons against it. One, that we know Raxon to be a crook used to chicanery, fraud, and blackmail. He will not protest, no matter how we obtained these letters. He will probably pay. With McKimber it is different. How shall we convince him that if he buys these letters he is safe from subsequent blackmail? He will know that his secret is shared by many others and he will never feel safe. As he probably won't run for office now, he may make a fight of it. He has money. He can retain the best counsel, while we are handicapped from the start. It is not a matter of choosing to benefit one at the cost of the other. Personally, I am inclined to be sorry for McKimber. With us all it is merely the easiest and safest way to get the money we have been defrauded of from the man who did it."

"Who's to sell the cut?" Barnes asked. "How are you going to talk it over with Raxon?"

"I think if I telephone to him he will come."

"But he might bring a gang of thugs with him," Barnes objected. "He can get a bunch of gunmen any time he needs them. What's to prevent him going through this place and getting the letters?"

"It is not a house easy to break into, as you know. He will not be admitted if he does not come alone. If he is as desperately anxious for those letters as I believe, he will come at once and alone. I shall not mention them when I speak to him, but he will be thinking of nothing else."

Malet had the opportunity to get a few words with Nita later in the evening.

"A few mornings back," he said softly, "you met young McKimber in the grounds at Great Rock. You had a few minutes with him and then left him. You said you thought you had been breaking your heart. Nita, what did you mean?"

She smiled at him. "Did I say that? How silly. Doesn't one exaggerate before breakfast?"

"You can't deceive me like that," he answered. "You are fond of Robin and you are torn between two emotions, your love for him and your loyalty to your father. What you would like to be able to do is to take those accursed letters and give them to Mr. McKimber without letting his wife or son know they ever existed."

"I would rather do that than anything else," she admitted. She saw that it was useless to conceal it from the sculptor. And she knew, too, that this middle-aged genius with the worn face and quiet ways, loved her. "It is hard, Uncle Floyd," she said, and smiled whimsically, "to feel one is betraying where one loves."

FORMER ANTIOCH MAN WRITES OF SANITARIUM

The News quotes the following from a letter from W. S. Kinear of Antioch who is now undergoing treatment at the Elgin State Sanitarium. The letter was written to Andrew J. Lynch of this place.

"The surroundings here are ideal—clean, and sanitary. The management is very pleasant and obliging and gives the utmost care and attention to the patients. Food is served in abundance and is first class.

"This ward contains 108 patients from all nationalities of the globe. So I have a wonderful opportunity to study human nature. Very few people at home know or realize the very excellent work the state of Illinois is doing for unfortunate humanity.

"This institution is managed by and directed from the head office of Dr. Arthur T. Hinton, head superintendent, and under his untiring and watchful eye a very competent staff of men and women of the highest type do things worth while.

"I am delighted to be here to rest and recuperate. I am not lonesome or despondent. I play the harmonica for amusement and talk politics, race horses and a hundred and one things to pass away the time pleasantly.

"I want you to visit me. Come a week from next Sunday if possible. It is only 38 miles over here, takes about one hour to drive over. Go to Grayslake, then McHenry, then Crystal Lake, Carpentersville and Elgin. Wm. S. Kinear, Infirmary, No. 1, Elgin State Sanitarium."

Muscles of tough, live rubber lengthen its life

THE "muscles" of tough, live rubber give astonishing endurance and record-breaking long life—without adding weight—to Top Notch Rubber Boots. These ribs or muscles, strong as whalebone, add strength to the tops and prevent them from cracking. The tough gray soles stand up under the hardest going in muck and stumps, in ditches, slush or ice. The longest-wearing boot your money can buy. In short, hip and Storm King Lengths.

For dependable, distinctive boots, wet- and dry-weather, always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

Says Newspaper Is Best Advertising Medium
The newspaper is the best advertising medium, states J. C. McQuiston, advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, in addressing council of the Chicago Association of Commerce recently.

"One great advantage of newspaper advertising is reader interest," he said. "We have grown into a nation of newspaper readers until today nearly every worthwhile American buys and reads the newspapers.
As a result any message in the newspaper comes to the reader fresh and welcome and secures immediate attention."

"We believe that you can make a sale with a newspaper advertisement today that it will take you a month or a year to get in any other medium if you get it at all," said Mr. Mc-Quiston in explaining why his company has centralized the bulk of its advertising in the newspapers.
